

Proficiency testing.

RKV (realkompetencevurdering) is the Danish term for proficiency testing. At HF&VUC Nord we offer an individual validation of your actual skills if you need a regular document to verify such skills, in order to enrol in higher education.

Proficiency is the combination of your knowledge, skills and qualifications in a certain area.

Proficiency may have been obtained in the formal educational system, in a job position or in courses of further training. Proficiency may also be obtained by living abroad and thereby learning the language, culture and history of another country.

We offer proficiency testing in all the primary and upper secondary school subjects from G-A level at HF&VUC Nord. Obviously, the proficiency test will meet the required goals (established by the Ministry of Education) in the subject/ level that you need to have validated.

What does it take to have a proficiency test and what is it exactly?

A proficiency test is offered when an applicant presents proof of the skills obtained in a different way than an ordinary exam grade, i.e. enrolment papers, references.

The decision to offer the test will be based on the communication between applicant and HF&VUC Nord and the proof presented. When the test has been done, HF&VUC Nord will issue a certificate stating whether the applicant has reached the goals of the specific subject. The certificate will therefore contain a validation of the proficiency level and a statement based on the results of the test compared to the goals. It is important to notice that the applicant will not receive a grade.

Where is the certificate useful?

A validation certificate is useful in a number of schools, universities and colleges and for different purposes:

- shortening an education
- having a diploma issued where the certificate substitutes a grade
- enrolling in various places of study

If the applicant does not agree with the content of the validation certificate, a complaint should be addressed to Kvalifikationsnævnet and sent to the school that issued the certificate. For further information please follow this link www.iu.dk – search for “kvalifikationsnævnet”.
